Secretary of Navy to Attend Schwab Reception Tonight

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels is due in this city from Washington at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

He, with other army and navy notables, stars of the operatic stage and noted artists of the pen and brush, will be a guest at a reception to be given 5000 employees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation by Charles M. Schwab at the Metropolitan Opera House tonight.

Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States shipping board, will also attend the affair, which has been arranged by Mr. Schwab to present a personal appeal to the men and women under him to unite in exerting every effort toward a successful conclusion of the war.

Charles Piez, vice president and general manager of the corporation, will be chairman of the meeting.

It will be the first time the entire force of Emergency Fleet employees and officials has been gathered together outside the confines of business, and a program suitable to the occasion has been arranged.

In addition to short addresses by prominent men, Miss Mabel Garrison, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing, and Missa Chlan, noted violinist, will play. Charles Dana Gibson, James Montgomery Flagg and other artists who have been active in war-poster work are among the speakers.

A dance for the younger members of the corporation's personnel will follow.

BOCHES HUMAN WHEN COWED

Corporal Miller Describes Experience in "Mopping Up" Woods

The Germans are human only after they are powerless to commit more heinous crimes, says Corporal Miller.

He writes of an experience he and others in his platoon had while doing a particularly efficient bit of "mopping up" in a wooded area where an American soldier stopped to give him the goods.

Suffering from a wounded shoulder and a bullet wound in his leg, Corporal Miller discounts his injuries and devotes several paragraphs to praise for the Red Cross and similar organizations.

USE OF ENGLISH URGED

Minister Wants Lutherans to Quit German and Other Languages

An appeal to Lutherans of all nationalities to use the English language in their services as a condition of Lutheran membership in the new United Lutheran Church in America, was issued by the Rev. Dr. G. Z. Kuntzman, for many years secretary of the Board of English Home Missions of the Lutheran Church.

Doctor Kuntzman urges an aggressive campaign for the Americanization of the immigrant. He bases his appeal on his experience with men in the camps who were unable to express themselves in English, unable even to understand it and unfamiliar with the simplest principles and facts of American life.

Parents Fined for Permitting Boy to Work at Hog Island

For permitting their thirteen-year-old son to work at Hog Island and leave school entirely, Lawrence and Jennie Correll, 1829 Titan street, were fined $10 and costs after a hearing in Magistrate Price's office.

The son, Michael Correll, formerly attended school, but left to go to work some time during the last term. The bureau of compulsory education of the Board of Education got on the case and located the boy at Hog Island.

Thirty-eight additional warrants are pending for other parents. These cases will be tried within the week. The bureau has started on its campaign to hold the parents of children responsible for any violation of the law.

AIDED IN EVACUATING HOSPITAL UNDER FIRE

"Plain Hell," Sergeant Zimmerman Describes Horrors of Rescue During Shelling

The horrors of removing hundreds of wounded men from an evacuation hospital being shelled by the Germans are vividly related in a letter to Mrs. W. H. Zimmerman, of Lansdale, from her son, Sergeant William Zimmerman, in service with the field hospital of the Seventy-ninth Division.

"Plain hell" is the manner in which he described the work of removing the injured through a sea of French mud, with enemy shells breaking all around, and the wounded left behind for a future trip because they were taken out.

The position occupied by the hospital was a particularly advanced one, and Sergeant Zimmerman writes that the German lines were plainly visible in the distance. The fighting was furious, and all during the day of the battle a stream of wounded fled between the action and the hospital.

Late in the afternoon a German reconnoitering plane passed overhead, and they suspected it meant the shelling of the hospital. It did.

"If you can imagine a fire, or similar panic, in one of the large hospitals in Philadelphia, you then have a slight idea of what took place," Zimmerman writes.

"Wounded men lying around the tents on litters, plauding with our men to be carried away. Due to the congestion of the roads they had to be carried either on litters or on our backs, and most of it was done the latter way. After two hours of the hardest kind of work we evacuated the hospital and moved what little material we could back to a little woods on the other side of the road, but most of the equipment was shot to pieces.

"One of the majors and I were among the last to leave. This was about 8:30 in the evening. It was very dark, and we all were plastered with mud. I had to leave all my personal equipment there in the field, and when I returned the next morning it was gone. This left me with all my worldly possessions on my back, but this made little difference, as I was still above the ground, and that's what really counts in this war."

FLIER FIGHTS SIXTY PLANES

British Aviator Single-Handed Downs Ten Machines

By the Associated Press

With the Allied Armies in France and Belgium, Nov. 7.—One of the most daring and heroic deeds has been recorded in the records of the British air force in a battle recently fought in the Moraine forest by a British major, working singlehanded in a fast scouting machine.

The major had engaged a German air-planes, and almost before he realized it was surrounded by a great flight of enemy machines, which attacked him fiercely from all sides. A battle royal ensued, which lasted about an hour, during which the British aviator was attacked by successive flights of enemy planes until he had given battle to between fifty and sixty.

Early in the fight the major sustained three severe and crippling wounds, one arm and both legs being rendered virtually useless. He was injured and the fact that he was almost unconscious at times, he continued to fight, until he had destroyed four hostile planes and had driven down out of control between four and six.

ROUTE 13 TO DARBY ANNULLED

Passengers Must Transfer at Mt. Moriah Beginning Nov. 10

Complying with an order of the United States fuel administration, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company today announced the following changes, effective November 10:

All cars of Route 13 will terminate at Mt. Moriah terminal, and a short line (Route 42) will be operated between Mt. Moriah terminal and Darby. The present transfer and exchange privileges will be maintained.

Owl-car service effective Monday morning, November 11, 1918:

Leave Mt. Moriah terminal: 12:50, 1:10, 1:50, 2:30, 3:10, 3:50, 4:30 and 4:58. Leave Front and Chestnut: 1:54, 1:44, 2:24, 3:04, 3:44, 4:24, 5:04 and 5:32.

All cars of Route 27 will terminate westbound at Twenty-ninth and Master streets. Transfers will be issued to Route 7 southbound at Twenty-ninth and Master streets and received from Route 7 northbound at Twenty-ninth and Master streets.

These changes will effect a saving of a large amount of coal annually and will release men for service elsewhere.

ITALIANS TO CELEBRATE

Gloucester County Residents Plan Jubilation at Williamstown

Italians of Gloucester county are planning a celebration Saturday of Italy's victory over Austria. The celebration will be held at Williamstown, a glass manufacturing town in the eastern part of Gloucester County, where there is a large Italian colony.

There will be speeches, a parade and general festivities, which are expected to draw Italians from all parts of the state. The principal speaker will be the Rev. J. W. Nickelson, pastor of the First M. E. Church of Gloucester, who will speak on "The Italian in America."

Society Women Open Room for Enlisted Men in Broad Street Station

The first canteen room for enlisted men was opened today in the Broad Street Station. On Saturday a similar room will be opened in the Reading Terminal and a third canteen bureau will be established in the Baltimore and Ohio Station on November 14. Both will be under the supervision of the Red Cross canteen section.

"The canteen rooms primarily are to provide for wounded soldiers while they are waiting at the stations between trains, although all soldiers and sailors will be welcomed," said Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel. "We have arranged to have our rooms placed in the main part of the stations not far from train gates, so that they will be within easy access. They will be equipped with screened papers and magazines, newspapers and anything else that will add to the comfort of a soldier."

"If some of these men are in need of food and without funds we will give them shellesh redemptions, newspapers and coffee at the station restaurants. Haggage in possession of wounded soldiers also will be properly checked through for them."

"Two women will be constantly in attendance at each canteen room. They will work in three shifts, the first from 7:30 in the morning until 12:30 p. m., the second from 12:30 until 6 o'clock and the third from 6 until 10."

A special division of the canteen department has been especially devoted to this work and has been placed by Mrs. Drexel in the hands of Mrs. William H. Bommer, who will work in conjunction with Mrs. Stacy Lloyd. Ten lieutenants also have been named who will travel from station to station giving aid to the women in charge.

The aides include prominent society women of this city, and are as follows: Mrs. George Dallas Dixon, Mrs. James W. Winsor, Mrs. Ralph Rosenberger, Mrs. George Starr, Mrs. Theodora Beach, Mrs. Edward Halley, Mrs. Walter Phillips, Mrs. W. W. Porter, Mrs. Christine Miller and Mrs. Shippen Willing.

ARMY NEEDS OFFICERS Eligible for Training Camps

"The war is not over. Peace has not been declared, and even if it should be there will be need for thousands of United States soldiers for a long time to come."

This is the import of a telegram received from the War Department by Captain Homer G. Vawter, in charge of the Philadelphia Military Training Camp Association.

The War Department has urged all its recruiting agents for the officers' training camps to redouble their efforts to obtain men, to assist in obtaining the thousands of officers needed, the department has thrown down all barriers. Any man in Class I-A is eligible, provided he has a high school education or its equivalent and is in good physical condition.

Philadelphia is called upon to furnish 1400 candidates. All men who can qualify are requested to apply to Captain Vawter, 117 Commercial Trust Building.

New York Pressmen Seek Increase Washington, Nov. 7.—Thirteen thousand job and cylinder pressmen and members of allied trades in New York city have asked the national war labor board for 35 per cent wage increases, based eight-hour day in all shops and replacement of men who, they aver, were locked out by employers.

BERLIN AS GIANT BONFIRE

Officer Hints Such a Sight Wouldn't Be Unwelcome

The prospect of Berlin furnishing the business end of a giant bonfire has proven an entertaining diversion during the leisure moments of Lieutenant James Earle Miller, now seeing active service overseas.

While disclaiming any intention of the Americans to emulate the atrocities of the Germans, the young man, who has risen to his position from the ranks, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Miller, 139 West Lacey street, Germantown, that the Kaiser's hordes richly deserve a taste of their own medicine.

He says, however, that he cannot answer for the French, who have suffered so much at the hands of the man he terms "Attila, the Second," "now that American arms have placed the Tricolor forces in a position to retaliate." Describing the great work of Pershing's men, he writes:

"America looks like a Great Redoubter in the eyes of the French. While the British, French, Belgians, Italians and all others have done their best, the great backbone has been America. I wish everyone at home could look behind the censorship screen and see the wonderful work that America is doing in every way."
